Meet My Friends and Me in

my StoryMaker

A new interactive experience in the Children's Department!

When the Library unveiled its newest literacy tool at CLP - Main in December, brothers Ian and Aidan Dawson were the first to give it their stamp of approval. Working beside my StoryMaker co-creator Bard McKinley, a graduate student at Carnegie Mellon University's Entertainment Technology Center (ETC), the brothers collaborated on a tale that illustrated the exciting adventures of a fox and lion.

my StoryMaker is an interactive project that gives children the freedom to create, print and share their own unique stories. Developed by a team of ten graduate students exclusively for CLP, my StoryMaker is aimed at increasing literacy rates in children during their formative years. The software uses artificial intelligence to form sentences related to how the child is interacting with the story. Once the child is satisfied with the story, a picture book is generated, complete with title, text and illustrations. A child-sized kiosk in the Children's Department rotates the top ten stories for Library visitors to view.

"The only limit to my StoryMaker is a child's imagination," says Patte Kelley, Department Head, CLP - Main, Children's Department. "The software is able to grow with the child as they build their vocabulary skills. Young readers enjoy the character interaction and watching their stories come to life, while older readers revel in the ability to completely customize their creations."

my StoryMaker was made possible through a $50,000 grant from the Grable Foundation. Children can enjoy my StoryMaker at all 18 CLP locations.

Greetings!

U.S. Steel Chairman John Surma and United Steelworkers President Leo Gerard began 2008 with a call for continued support of Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh. The challenge to “make our city’s libraries a priority” appeared on the front page of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette’s January 13 Sunday Forum section and shed light on the important contribution Carnegie Library has made to the citizens of Pittsburgh.

They wrote, “As successors to Andrew Carnegie’s vision, we know that a library promotes literacy and learning, and also stabilizes and strengthens our community. Pittsburgh is one of the greatest places in the country to live, and our library system helps to make it that way.”

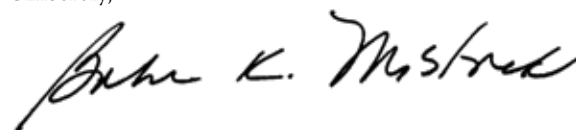

The library’s value to literacy and learning gained national recognition as, for the fifth consecutive year, Pittsburgh was named one of “America’s Most Literate Cities,” with an overall ninth place ranking. In the category of library support, holdings and utilization, Pittsburgh ranked seventh, outscoring Minneapolis, this year’s “Most Literate City.”

Recognizing the value of our library system is an important step toward strengthening the Pittsburgh community for the next generation. The next step is to continue to assert that value here in our own community, our state and our nation.

Your support is critical as we enter the final stages of our $55 million capital campaign, and as we continue to vie for local, state and national funding to support our operations.

As you will see on page five, now more than ever we are depending on you, the individuals in our community, to help us reach our goals.

Sincerely,

Dr. Barbara K. Mistick
President and Director, Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh

Groundbreaking News!

This spring, city, county and community leaders will help CLP officials break ground on a new North Side Library! The construction project will transform a former gas station site to a facility for literacy, learning and fun.

Architect Karen Loysen (Loysen + Kreuthmeier Architects) designed the new Library to reflect the community's proud history. Historic collections will have a place of honor in the new facility. Loysen's plan also calls for handicapped access, wireless Internet, a teen section and a children's programming area. When completed in 2009, the Library is sure to become an integral part of the developing neighborhood.

Help us celebrate!

North Side Groundbreaking
Friday, May 9 at 9 am · 1210 Federal Street

A reception for the community will be held immediately following the groundbreaking ceremony.

CLP by the Numbers

100 Cupcakes consumed during a donor reception at CLP - Homewood with noted teen author Angela Johnson. Johnson was the featured speaker in December's Behind the Book: Authors Talk to Teens lecture series. Sorry, no leftover cupcakes, but you can catch four Behind the Book authors on April 16, at the final event of the series.

20 Hand-crafted stained glass windows designed by CLP staff in honor of Pittsburgh's Year of Glass. The ornaments were displayed on one of five large Christmas trees that adorned Carnegie Museum's Architecture Hall during the holiday season.

2007 And the 2007 Mary Margaret Kimmel Scholarship recipient is... Connie Amoroso, Teen and First Floor Librarian at CLP - Main! Established in 1995, the competitive award provides full tuition for completion of a Master of Library Science program at an educational institution accredited by the American Library Association.

156 Additional hours a year of service gained in 2008 thanks to increased funding from the Allegheny Regional Asset District. Customers are now able to visit CLP - Main one hour earlier on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Donor Spotlight

Robert Levin, President, Levin Furniture

Early Literacy Gets Boost From Levin Furniture

“The Library has such a great history in Pittsburgh and provides terrific services to a wide swath of people in our communities,” said Robert Levin, President of Levin Furniture. “It was one of several wonderful organizations that we were able to designate through the Educational Improvement Tax Credit Program (EITC).”

Levin Furniture, like CLP, has relished a long, close history with the Pittsburgh community. Since 1920, the Levin family has grown to become the largest full-service home furnishings retailer in Western Pennsylvania. Currently the company operates twelve locations in the Pittsburgh area and Northeastern Ohio.

“Carnegie Library was an obvious choice for us,” said

Mr. Levin. “There’s nothing that says ‘community’ like the local library.”

Pennsylvania’s EITC program was created by the Commonwealth’s Department of Community & Economic Development to give businesses and corporations of all sizes an incentive to support organizations like CLP. Through participation in the EITC Program, Levin Furniture has the unique ability to allow their tax dollars to benefit an organization of their choice. A two-year commitment to CLP can earn a company a 90% tax credit. A one-year commitment earns a tax credit of 75%. Levin Furniture’s donation will help fund the Library’s innovative educational improvement programs, including Bringing Libraries and Schools Together (BLAST), Authors/Artists Meet their Audience and Summer Reading.

You can make a difference!

Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh is proud to be recognized as an Educational Improvement Organization. By making a donation to an EITC organization, companies are assured that their funds are being directed to valuable resources within their community.

To learn how your company can earn up to $200,000 a year for tax credit please contact CLP’s Development Office at 412.622.6276.

You Make Us Successful!

In any capital campaign the last dollars are typically the most difficult to raise. As we go to print, CLP needs to raise a little more than $5 million to reach the $55 million capital campaign goal. Please call the Library’s Development Office at 412.622.6276 to learn how you can shape the future by supporting Libraries for LIFE.

> CLP on the M.O.V.E.

One Carrick High School student told advisors “there is more to a library” after working at CLP - Knoxville.

Last fall, eleven Pittsburgh Public School students learned what it is like to work at the region’s most visited asset. For eight weeks students were invited to job-shadow at their neighborhood library, pulling books for storytimes, assisting with inventory, straightening shelves and preparing spreadsheets.

CLP was one of 65 community businesses and institutions participating in Pittsburgh Public Schools Project M.O.V.E. (Mentoring Opportunities for Vocational Exploration), providing work experience and mentors that showed the teens what it takes to be successful in the workplace. “This mentorship is a key element of the Start on Success Program, and is often times the first experience that these students have in the real world of work,” Ashley McFall, Start On Success Transition Coordinator told the mentors.

> Is Music Your Passion?

Did you know Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh’s Music Department has more than 115,100 pieces in its collection, including recordings, musical scores and oral histories?

Since its inception in 1938, Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh’s Friends of the Music Library has supported the continuing development of the vast collection, donating more than $1 million to preserving this Pittsburgh treasure. The active group believes deeply in the value of a local music resource, shares a passion for music and takes pride in the collection it has helped to build.

Find your inner musician. Contact CLP’s Development Office at 412.622.6276 to learn how you can preserve this rich musical collection for future generations.

Donor Spotlight

August Wilson's Century Cycle Boxed Sets

In November, Theatre Communications Group (TCG) surprised CLP with 18 box sets, which contain hardcover editions of each of the ten plays from The August Wilson Century Cycle. Customers can check out Wilson's compilations by requesting the box set at any CLP location, online through the catalog or in the Reference Services Department at CLP - Main where one set will remain for customers to view. The gift was made possible through a grant from The Heinz Endowments to help distribute 200 box sets to selected public libraries in Pennsylvania.

"August Wilson's interest as a writer was sparked in the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh where he spent much of his time when in his teens," said Leigh Zona, Director of Marketing for TCG. "We cannot think of a more fitting way to honor him than by returning his complete works to their birthplace, and honoring the Pennsylvania Public libraries where he first encountered the great African American authors."

CLP goes wireless!

CLP has added free unlimited wireless fidelity (WiFi) Internet access to all neighborhood locations. Library customers are no longer constrained to using traditional PCs when accessing the Internet and searching the Library's online catalog. The expansion of wireless service was partially funded with federal Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) funds administered by the Office of Commonwealth Libraries.

Retiring in Style

On January 17, two hundred friends, family and colleagues of CLP's Deputy Director Gladys Maharam gathered to express their gratitude and wish her well on her retirement. Since 1968 Gladys' passion for library service has had a profound impact on the millions of customers who visit CLP. During her tenure she has tackled a number of diverse library roles, including the Catalog Department, Librarian at CLP - Squirrel Hill, Department Head of the Business Department and Popular Library, Assistant Director of Technical Services, Director of the Library Center of Point Park College and Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh and served as the Interim Director of the Library twice!

"Like many staff members, I will miss her passion, guidance and warm personality," said Dr. Barbara K. Mistick, President and Director. "She has made an indelible mark at CLP and is leaving us with a tremendous legacy. I am personally honored to work with her every day."

Whatever the role, in her 40 years of service, Gladys has left an unforgettable impression on Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh as well as the local and national library communities.

A special fund to support the Business Resources at Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh has been established in Gladys' name. If you would like to make a contribution in her honor, please contact the Library's Development Office at 412.622.6276.

CLP music librarians David King and Tim Williams paid tribute to Gladys with a song they wrote for the occasion.
